Last evening's Steubenville Star has the following encouraging report: The general committee representing the different labor organizations of this city held a meeting last evening in Local Union Hall No. 8, and made final arrangements to attend the labor demonstration at Wheeling Saturday, in a body. Nearly all the various labor organizations had appointed committees for the purpose of arranging for the Wheeling demonstration, so that considerable of the work had been fixed beforehand. Although the time is short it is confidently expected that from three to five hundred men belonging to the labor organizations will go to Wheeling on Saturday. The general committee will go as a separate body and will all wear the Armstrong souvenir badges. The other organization banners and flags and wear the badges of the organization to which they belong. The Acme band of nineteen pleces will also accompany the delegations from this city. There will be a large delegation go from Mingo Junction, from the steel plant and naif factory.

THE BODY OF GENERAL CURTIS

THE BODY OF GENERAL CURTIS Accompanied to the Grave by an Immense Concourse of Friends and Old Comrades.

The most largely attended funera that ever took place in the village of West Liberty, was that of General W. B. Curtis yesterday afternoon. The remains of the heroic soldier were escorted to their last resting place by fully 400 people. Prominent among these were thirty-four veterans of the war, who represented eleven different regiments and three batteries, and came from eleven States. been modest and unassuming, but his old friends and comrades honored him in death in a manner besitting his gallant deeds.

The services of the Methodist Episcopal church, of which General Curtis had been a consistent member, were conducted by Kev. Spencer King, his pastor. Mr. King delivered a warm tribute to the unassuming character. Christian virtues and noble deeds of the general. Appropriate selections were sung by the choir, and sorrowfully the body was borne to the little cemetery. At the grave the impressive Masonic ceremonies were conducted by Hon, G. W. Atkinson, and Curtis Post, G. A. R., performed the ritual of the Grand Army.

Was it the Wild Man?

Another strange story comes from Meade township, Belmont county, which arouses suspicion that the "wild which arouses suspicion that the "wild man" or what-is-it is as sly on occasion as he is fierce. A farmer's wife placed some meat on the table, covering it with an inverted wooden bowl, on which she set a sack of flour. She was gone for a little while, and when she returned everything was apparently as she had left it, but when she went to get the meat it was gone. Of course no mere beast could remove the cover, take the meat and recover the plate.
